Suspecting he might seek assistance from his estranged wife, a resident of nearby Mill-City, Lake Winola Chief of Police John Hedgely and officers from the Tunkhannock barracks had asked neighbors to be on the alert for the fugitive.

State Game Commission To Purchase Area Lands

8,000 Acres Located In Pike County

STATE Game Commission has optioned 8,000 acres of land in Pike County for purchase according to Game Commissioner C. Elwood Huffman, Marshalls Creek.

Acquisition of this tract will raise the total State-owned game land acreage in Pike County to 14,000 acres. The new land lies in Dingman and Blooming Grove Townships.

Huffman said last night that the new land will add considerably to the hunting opportunities offered sportsmen in Eastern Pennsylvania. It will also consolidate Game Lands 116 and 180 by providing a connecting link and surrounding belt for them.

The combined acreage will contribute greatly toward insuring the public at large of adequate hunting space in the East Pennsylvania region, Huffman said. Purchase of such lands is made possible by money derived from gas royalties from other State Game Lands.

Location
The area lies near Shohola Falls. It is easily accessible to most of Eastern Pennsylvania—about two hours driving time from Allentown, one hour from Scranton and three hours from Philadelphia.

Commissioner Huffman pointed out yesterday that the tract, mostly deeply wooded, is now closed to public hunting. Bear, deer, ruffed grouse, gray squirrels and woodcock are common on the tract. Cottontail rabbits, although scarce at present, are available in sufficient numbers to provide good hunting.

Within a few years, Huffman said, the timber will begin to reach an age that will also make the area attractive to wild turkeys.

Included in the 8,000-acre tract is about 1,000 acres of marshland which serves as an ideal habitat for many forms of wildlife. The area is bisected by a number of streams, some of which are well-known for trout and warm water fishing, Huffman said.

Among the more prominent streams are the Shohola Creek, Rattlesnake Creek, Mile Brook, Birch Creek and McConnell Creek.

John Lohman, district game protector, Milford, worked closely with the commission in acquiring the option for purchase of the land, Huffman said.

Strike Threat Hangs Over Aluminum

NEW YORK, July 30 (U)—Strike portents hovered today over another heavy industry—a big part of the nation's aluminum plants.

In the wake of a settlement reached in the month-long steel strike, a showdown for aluminum workers neared.

In Pittsburgh, the big Aluminum Co. of America said it is making "preliminary" preparations for an orderly shutdown if the strike comes.

Negotiators worked against a deadline tomorrow midnight. With the United Steelworkers of America still ironing out details of the steel industry settlement, representatives of the same union were bargaining with aluminum companies.

Request
Steelworkers President David J. McDonald himself today entered the aluminum talks, reportedly at the request of the industry.

Contracts with Alcoa and the Reynolds Aluminum Co., expire tomorrow midnight. The union has said it will not extend the present contract beyond the deadline.

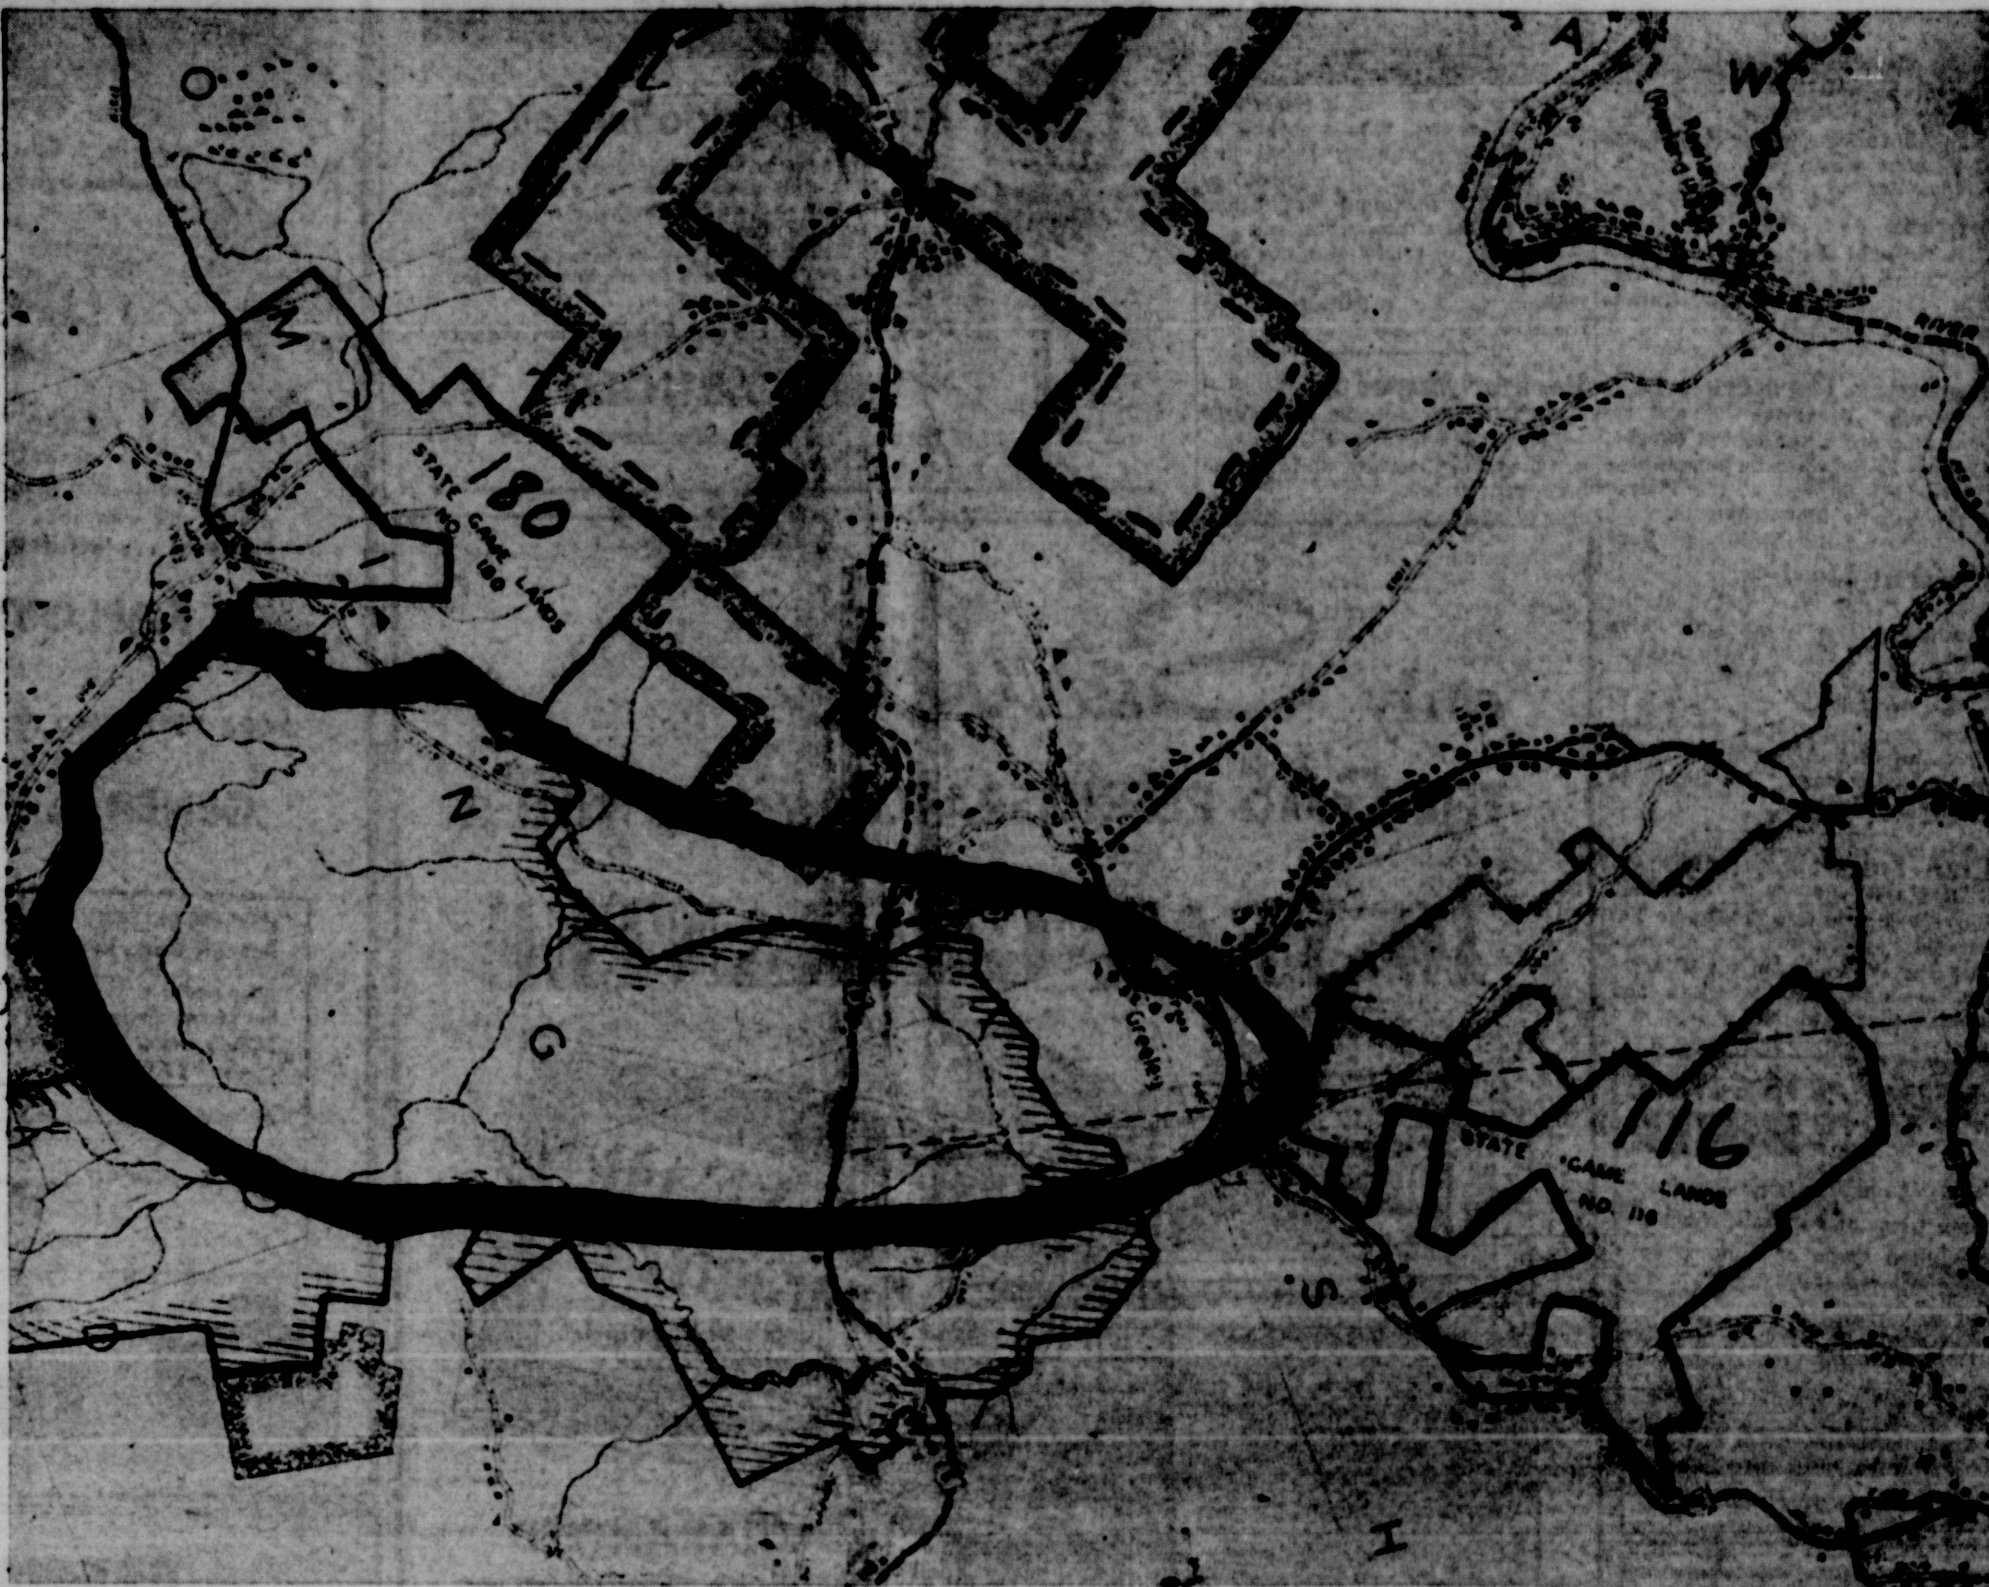

First Brink Suspect Returned To Prison

BOSTON, July 30 (U)—Amid intensive security measures, the first of eight defendants who will face trial Monday in the $1,219,000 Brink's robbery case was returned to Suffolk County jail here today.

He was Thomas F. Richardson, 49, who was brought from the Salem jail.

Five More
Two were at Suffolk jail already while five other defendants will be transferred here in the next three days.

Joseph (Specs) O'Keefe, 48, who has pleaded guilty, will remain at the East Cambridge jail.

IT'S ALL IN THE GAME. Good news for hunters hereabouts yesterday was the announcement by State Game Commissioner C. Elwood Huffman that the State has an option for purchase of 8,000 acre tract of land shown here. Tract lies in Dingman and Blooming Grove townships, Pike County. On the map it is

Britain, France Issue Suez Plan

LONDON, July 30 (U)—Britain and France asked the United States today to back a plan for an international control board to guarantee that the Suez Canal remains an international waterway open to all nations in war and peace. The board would include Egypt and Soviet Russia.

Prime Minister Eden announced a second retaliatory slap for President Gamal Abdel Nasser's Suez nationalization—the halting of all British arms shipments to Egypt.

On the other hand, Egyptian customs officials at Alexandria announced without explanation the lifting of the ban on exports to Britain and her Commonwealth which are paid for in British currency. Four ships bound for Britain, whose $420,000 cargoes of cotton and rice had been unloaded, were ordered reloaded.

Cancellation
The British Foreign Office also received word that Egypt had canceled its order to canal officials not to accept checks on London or Paris banks in payment of tolls.

Meeting in an atmosphere of crisis, with large crowds gathering outside the Prime Minister's residence and the British press urging forceful action, officials of Britain, France and the United States considered a plan that would in effect recognize Egypt's nationalization of the canal company, but assure international use of the waterway.

British and French informants who disclosed the plan said Egypt, as well as Russia, would be a member of the international board, and that Egypt would share in revenues of the canal's operation. Russia was one of the nine signers of the 1888 Constantinople convention which declared the canal open to all nations in peace and war.

If the plan is settled upon by the three Western powers, they would seek an international conference of the maritime powers to put it into effect.

Plane Lands Safely

MIDDLETOWN, Pa., July 30 (U)—A twin-engine B25 landed safely at Olmsted Air Force Base today after one engine caught fire during a flight from Washington to Greentier, N. H.

Marine Surveyor Reveals Water Not Deep Enough For Drowning Near Shore Of Creek

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C., July 30 (U)—A Marine surveyor said today he found no hidden pitfalls, no deep water and only a sluggish current in the death march area of Ribbon Creek.

Warrant Officer Leslie E. Volle, his bright red hair undimmed by a close crop, testified S. Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon would have had to lead Platoon 71 far out into the creek to find water that gradually would rise above their heads.

Six young Marine recruits drowned in an April 8 march McKeon led into Ribbon Creek. He is undergoing court-martial for their deaths.

Logs Believed Lost Found In Care Of Liner Captain

NEW YORK, July 30 (U)—Vital records hitherto thought lost were disclosed today by the sunken liner Andrea Doria.

The Italian Line, operator of the vessel, reported that Capt. Piero Calamai, last man to quit the Doria after her fatal collision with the Swedish liner Stockholm, had taken his logs with him. But the contents of the records were kept secret.

Meanwhile the first of a possible avalanche of damage suits growing out of last Wednesday night's fogbound collision off Nantucket Island was filed in federal court.

Suit
Charging both lines with negligence, Miss Nancy Leo of Miami, Fla., asked $100,000 from each, claiming she suffered a broken leg and other injuries on the Doria.

There was no immediate comment from either line on the suit, but coincidentally the Italian Line told newsmen it was prepared to defend its rights and assets.

Asked if that meant the line would claim it was not liable for the crash, a spokesman refused to comment.

The New York Post said today that both liners tracked each other by radar for some time before the crash. At least 25 lives apparently were lost.

Prosecution testimony indicated McKeon, at the head of the column, never went more than 11 feet or so from the bank of the creek. At that distance, Volle said, the maximum depth of the water is only 2.3 feet.

Five Foot
Volle testified a five-foot depth of water is found some 20 to 40 feet out in the stream in that area.

"At any time, did you ever find any holes, cliffs, falloffs, spanish wells (concealed, mud-encrusted pits) or any other depressions out there?" Volle was asked by Col. Alaric W. Valentin, a defense lawyer.

"No, sir, we did not," replied the 27-year-old warrant officer from Chestnut, Ill., and Greensboro, N. C.

"Is there any place where a man walking directly out into mid-stream would take one step and go over his head?"

"No, sir," Volle said. "Two steps?"

"No, sir," was the reply. "He would go gradually under water."

Moreover, Volle told McKeon's court-martial, Ribbon Creek is more sluggish than the average stream and its maximum depth at high tide along its fringes is 5.3 feet "and probably less than that."

The death march took place two hours after high tide was reached April 8.

Several of the platoon members testified they found themselves abruptly in water over their heads on the march.

Prosecution
The prosecution accuses the 31-year-old McKeon of leading his platoon into tide-ripped waters over their heads, with the suggestion the boys who drowned may have floundered into hidden holes.

It is the defense contention that McKeon was leading a disciplinary march into a nonperilous area, but that the recruits broke formation and frolicked out of their depth through their own negligence.

Volle was the second witness as the defense opened its case at the beginning of the court-martial's third week. McKeon is charged with manslaughter, oppression of recruits and drinking on duty.

Routine defense motions for dismissal of the charges were denied at the outset of the court day by Navy Capt. Irving N. Klein, the trial judge.

Stassen Takes Leave Of Absence

WASHINGTON, July 30 (U)—Harold Stassen is taking a month off from his White House job in an effort to avert the GOP vice presidential nomination from Richard Nixon to Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts.

President Eisenhower granted his request for a leave of absence today, and now apparently Stassen will have both hands free to try to rearrange the bottom half of the GOP ticket.

The leave of absence, effective Thursday, was announced in a White House statement issued at Gettysburg, Pa., where Stassen conferred with Eisenhower for 20 minutes this morning. The statement said in part:

Activities
"Mr. Stassen wanted to have the time and the opportunity to pursue certain political activities without involving his official position or the White House."

Stassen is the President's assistant on disarmament matters and has a desk in the executive offices.

After he plumped for Herter last Monday, 20 congressmen angrily demanded that he resign from his White House post. Herter said he would nominate Nixon for re-election.

Stassen said in Washington today he was pleased that Eisenhower had approved a leave of absence.

"On Thursday, Aug. 2," he added in a statement, "I will make a further statement about my continuing endeavor to add to the strength of the Eisenhower campaign and to the Republican congressional races through the nomination of an Eisenhower-Herter ticket."

Wayne County Lakes Open To Nov. 30

BUM weather and meagre catches yesterday led the State Fish Commission to tack another month and a half on to the 1956 trout fishing season, which was originally scheduled to end today.

The commission's precedent-making decision will permit trout fishing until Sept. 15. It also posted 10 lakes for trout fishing through Nov. 30. These included Upper Woods Pond and Lake Lorraine in Wayne County, as well as Lake Wallenpaupack.

For these waters, it will mean trout angling in the Fall for the first time in a generation.

The commission's announcement brought favorable reaction from veteran Monroe County fishermen.

Comment
"I think it's a coming thing," commented Ben B. Overholts of White Heron Lake, and one of the area's top fly fishermen. "Further expansion of the hatcheries should mean continued good fishing throughout the season."

Overholts noted that the season got off to a very poor start, except for anglers using live bait. Many fishermen soon lost heart because of the poor weather conditions.

Meanwhile, Fish Warden Floyd Bachman stated that a total 65,280 trout were released in Monroe County streams at different intervals during the season.

But, except for veterans like Overholts, fishing still wasn't considered as good as in other years.

Commission president R. Stanley Smith said a survey showed that the catch so far this year has been so meagre that a July 31 expiration would have meant an over-abundance of trout.

Heavy rains have muddied streams since the season opened April 15, Smith said.

One Dies In Fall From Slope

TIMBERLINE LODGE, Ore., July 30 (U)—The 18 maimed and injured survivors of a mountain-climbing accident were safe today after a long ordeal at the bottom of a fume-filled crevasse.

Fifteen-year-old Lynn Kaufman of Larchmont, N. Y., was killed in the mishap yesterday on the slopes of the 11,335-foot Cascade peak of Mt. Hood. She was pumpled into a snow drift when her 18 climbing companions tumbled down a 40-foot cliff onto her already broken body.

The climbers were roped together on a single lifeline when one of them slipped. Then the whole screaming group lost footing and catapulted 400 feet down the steep slope and plunged into the crevasse, one on top of the other.

Sees Fall
Tom Pfau of Salem, Ore., who also was climbing the mountain, saw them fall. He made his way to the side of the crevasse.

"People were down in the bottom of the crevasse, all in a mess," he said.

He climbed down to the floor of the pit, where sulphur fumes from the old volcano seeped out of rocky vents.

"All I had was a pocket knife, but I started to use it to cut people free from the rope and drag them to the edge of the cliff."

A CONTRACT to erect two bridges for $37,873.80 was awarded by the Monroe County commissioners yesterday to the contracting firm of Harry DePue, Tamaqua, R.D.3.

DePue offered to build Pocono Bridge on Route 469 in Hamilton Township for $50,213.50, and Paradise Bridge on Route 603 in Paradise Township for $37,660.30.

Five Bidders
He was low among five bidders. O'Brien & Redmond, Devon, Pa., submitted a high estimate of $63,622.42 for the Pocono Bridge, while top bid on the Paradise span was $43,677. It was submitted by Eschenbach & Sons, Stroudsburg.

Proposed Thruway Joins With Alternate Route 611

THE PROPOSED Thruway connects with alternate route 611 running east almost parallel to the Lackawanna Railroad.

As now proposed the route will descend on a 1.3 percent grade then breaking into a three percent grade in the actual interchange area. The interchange to be constructed will be of a "trumpet" type.

Positions of Ramps A and B are to be controlled by the structure over Brookhead Creek. According to officials if these entrance and access ramps, to and from the Thruway, were placed east of the recommended location it would make an "acceleration lane" necessary.

Ramp A provides a connection for eastbound traffic on the Thruway to travel east on Leg. Rte. 45011 which connects to Leg. Rte. 461 west. This will accommodate

U. S. 209 traffic going north because Leg. Rte. 461 west joins U. S. 209. This movement will include the through traffic which now uses Pa. Rte. 612 (Leg. Rte. 166) to reach Leg. Rte. 45011.

Ramp B conveys traffic from 45011 sources going east on the Thruway to the Delaware Water Gap Bridge. Ramp C is a direct connection for west-bound traffic to 45011 and resort areas on the north side of Brookhead Creek. Ramp D takes off from a point where it is common with Ramp B and carries westbound traffic from 45011 west on the Thruway.

From the junction of the four ramps to the junction of 45011 and 45058 four lanes will be provided. A standby lane will be provided for left turns onto 45058. A portion of Leg. Rte. 166 will be relocated to join relocated 45058 and provide access for local traffic to present Pa. Rte. 612.

Quick Action By Doctor, Firemen Save Girl's Life

DINGMANS FERRY—A 15-month-old girl was saved from drowning in a swimming pool here yesterday afternoon through the efforts of a quick-thinking doctor and well-trained Milford firemen.

The youngster was identified as Barbara Ann Ronan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Ronan, Brooklyn, N. Y., who currently are guests at Locke's Ridge View Cabins, located on Wilson Hill here.

The baby was playing with her seven-year-old sister when she apparently wandered off shortly after noon. Parents and other guests soon started a search for her, and she was discovered in the pool by her sister.

Appears Lifeless

When she was removed from the water, she appeared to be lifeless.

However, another guest, Dr. Raymond Hoesten, Queens Village, N. Y., immediately applied artificial respiration, while a call was made for the Milford Fire Department ambulance.

The ambulance took the child to St. Francis Hospital, Port Jervis, St. Francis Hospital, Port Jervis, oxygen tent. Her condition was listed as "fair" at the hospital last night.

Barbara Ann's parents credited Dr. Hoesten with saving their child's life. In turn, the physician commended the Milford volunteers for their promptness, and for their good equipment and training.

Daily Record Celebrates 10th Year As Ottaway Newspaper

Sunday was a comparatively quiet day in the Poconos, but it was a special 24 hours for those of The Daily Record family.

It was just 10 years ago, July 29, 1946, that James H. Ottaway purchased the Record and made it a member of five newspapers and four radio stations in the Ottaway chain at the present time.

Those of our regular readers have witnessed countless changes down through the years, as have we the employees of the company.

Circulation is now at an all-time high for a newspaper in Monroe County. The press run totals more than 10,000 copies every day.

Advances have been made throughout the paper and combined work of the editorial, advertising, composing, stereotype, press and business departments have enabled The Daily Record to take its place among the fastest growing newspapers in the country.

The Record now covers a greater area than ever before. Not only does it blanket

Monroe County, but is well represented in Wayne and Pike and Northampton counties. Readers and advertisers each benefit equally from the improvements which have been placed in operation at The Record.

Readers and advertisers are the sole thought of the planning which goes into The Daily Record and management is doing all in its power to continue the trend of improvements.

The Daily Record has long been a leader in community affairs. It has led many drives for innovations which it felt would benefit the locality. The paper was equally quick to oppose those suggestions or movements it felt would harm the area.

We of The Daily Record adviser uppermost in our minds and will continue to fight for the things we believe correct for our home area.

By the time The Daily Record celebrates its 11th year with the Ottaway chain, its operation will be in a new, spacious building at Broad and Lenox Sts., South Stroudsburg.

Retiring President Of Johns Hopkins Welcomes Milton Eisenhower As Successor

In announcing the selection of Dr. Milton Eisenhower as his successor as president of the Johns Hopkins University, Dr. Lowell J. Reed declared:

"Dr. Eisenhower has a deep understanding of the strong academic traditions of Johns Hopkins. The university will grow in stature and usefulness under his guidance."

Pennsylvanians can assure all at Johns Hopkins, its graduates and friends and the Baltimore community that Dr. Reed is 100 per cent. right. They know from experience and personal observation during the six years that Dr. Eisenhower headed the Pennsylvania State University.

Pennsylvanians back up Dr. Reed's assessment not reluctantly, but nonetheless with regret. Penn State had offered to allow Dr. Eisenhower to write his own ticket if he would reconsider his resignation as president of the State's university, but personal reasons were compelling. Dr. Eisenhower said, and his decision was made. During the six years he was at Penn State, Dr. Eisenhower's wife died. His son and daughter completed their studies and moved on, and he was left alone.

In addition to these compelling personal reasons, the proximity of Johns Hopkins to Washington undoubtedly played a part in Dr. Eisenhower's decision. He is the closest adviser to his brother, the President of the United States, and has continued along with his career as an educator a wide range of governmental service. Just this past week, he was designated by the President as the United States representative on a special Organization of American States commission.

Pennsylvanians wish Dr. Eisenhower well in his new position, and they congratulate the officials of Johns Hopkins on their wisdom and good luck.

George Sokolsky Says...

Stassen's Recent Outburst Against Nixon Another Chapter In Notable Political Career

All men in public life suffer from frustration and disappointments. The concatenations of affairs, the course of events, the interplay of imponderables seem to dominate situations to the annoyance of those who have devoted their lives to what they regard as a public service.

Harold Stassen

Harold Stassen has the reputation of being an able administrator of a public office, which is not an ignominious thing as there are not too many men of real managerial ability in public life. Although only 49 years of age, he has been Governor of the State of Minnesota, President of the University of Pennsylvania, a permanent candidate for the Republican nomination for the Presidency of the United States, and during the Eisenhower Administration, he has been in charge of the give-away program and is now the President's Secretary of Peace, in charge of disarmament.

There can be no question but that Stassen's career has been notable. But he is possessed of one character defect that places him in an awkward position vis-a-vis other Republicans. That is his obsession that he ought to be President of the United States.

Certainly, there can be no objection to any man aspiring to the Presidency. All boys used to be told by doting parents that the greatness of America consisted in the right of any man to become President, no matter what a dope he might grow up to be. That was said to give up the child self-confidence and to instill in him patriotic ideals. Many a mother who found herself big with child while abroad rushed back to the United States to give birth to her son on American soil, only to discover that she gave birth to a girl or that, if a son, he grew up to be a football player with no Presidential ambitions at all. Life is full of surprises.

Harold Stassen, however, was different. Never for a moment did he lose the ambition to be President or the conviction that he was just the guy for the job. He has always had an attraction for youth, probably because he has always been so young-looking, so boyish, in appearance. When Stassen, in 1940, realized that he could not get the nomination for himself, he turned his youthful strength over to Willkie and gained some stature by his sacrifice, because the Eastern businessmen who were then in control of the Republican Party, looked favorably upon Stassen.

However, Tom Dewey and Bob Taft arose to plague Stassen and to reduce his opportunities and when they had exhausted each other, Dwight D. Eisenhower appeared on the scene and took over. Stassen became an Eisenhower man and was duly rewarded by being given Paul Hoffman's job as almoner of the United States, giving away its largesse to all nations with a free and generous hand that was so free and so generous that Congress voted him out of office.

Eisenhower then took Stassen into the White House where he was made an assistant to the President, a Secretary of Peace, in charge of universal disarmament. As such negotiations are the especial province of the State Department, Stassen came into conflict not only with John Foster Dulles but with all the other persons in the White House policy. Those who complained to President Eisenhower that Stassen treads heavily upon the toes of all others were told that Harold was a great liberal and that the Republicans needed a great liberal.

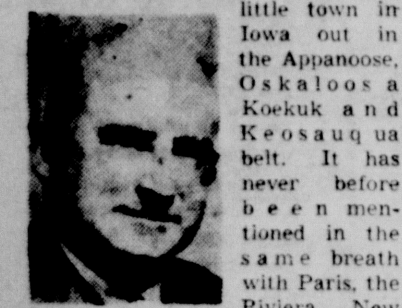

When the President became ill, some Republicans aspired to be Vice President to replace Richard Nixon. Among these was Harold Stassen. There were so many aspirants and they all gave the impression of waiting on Ike's grave even before he died that it was inevitable that the President would solve the problem by keeping the 1952 Ike and Dick ticket.

So Stassen organized his young Republican contingents in 16 states to put pressure on Eisenhower. He was duly warned that his activities were not pleasing to the President, whereupon he suggested the name of Christian Herter, knowing, as everybody in polite life must know, that Herter cannot and, for his health, should not take the job. It was a smart way to start an argument in the hope that Stassen would get it as a compromise, but it was too smart and too palpable and too desperate.

The Once Over

Ottumwa Makes It

Ottumwa is in the news. It is not an ointment, an Indian brave or a southpaw pitcher. It is a little town in Iowa out in the Appanoos, Oskaloos, Keosauqua and Keosauqua belt. It has never before been mentioned in the same breath with Paris, the Riviera, Rome, Capri or Vienna as a glamorous producing area. But it is up there in the headlines since one of its girls, Carol Morris, grabbed off the all-embracing, nonlimit global title of Miss Universe.

There were eye-filling dolls from all over the earth in the contest and from great cities the question is being asked, "What's Ottumwa got that we haven't got?" always admitting that the correct answer could be "Miss Morris."

Gals from Germany, Sweden, England and Italy finished behind her in the order named, and, of course, the decision will not lower the cries, "American, go home!" which echo from so many places. No nation is going to admit it runs second to Ottumwa. Not that the winner isn't beautiful. The point is that the title of Miss Universe takes in too much territory and leaves the lovely Iowa girl open to the comment that she is "the most beautiful girl in the world, give or take a few continents." There could be more perfect hips in Brazil, shapelier legs in India, more sparkling eyes in Mexico. To which you could reply, "Put them all together and what have you got?—Ottumwa!"

Any girl who goes after the title of Miss Universe and lands it is bound to have tough days ahead. She will detect a "sez you!" wherever she travels. She will be haunted by a fear of putting on a couple of pounds. Not for years will she think it safe to order an Idaho baked potato, with two patties of butter. Dessert will be out. As year after year passes Miss Universe will often wake up screaming after a dream in which she has discovered the first signs of a double chin. Introductions will be awkward. To "I want you to meet Miss Universe" will she not see in a young man's eyes such a reply as "Let's not exaggerate." "What was the territorial expanse again, please?" "That's what they all say," or "Wanna bet?"

Smalltown gals are apt to be extra eye-filling, we think, having the natural advantages of being cornfed, raised under the healthiest conditions and pretty generally immunized from getting artificial and high-glossed so fast. They don't get the rush-order beautification treatment, as a rule. Some of the prettiest gals we ever saw came from places like Cement and Skiatook, Okla., Powhatan Point, Ohio and Pelican Rapids, Minn.

NOISY LITTLE BOY

Fairly Spoken By MARGARET LATROBE

Americans Urged To Do Something About Taxes

Last winter a former Commissioner of Internal Revenue wrote a series of articles recommending abolition of the income tax. Last year author Cameron Hawley wrote a best-selling novel, "Cash McCall," depicting the idiosyncrasy of the tax structure as relates to big business.

And recently Mr. Hawley came out from behind the hard covers of his book in an appeal before the Pennsylvania Bar Association. His message—"Our tax laws are making us dishonest." His suggestion—"Let's do something about it."

If you talk to any business man who has two dimms to rub together you will find he had four—but Uncle Sam got his cut. If you talk to any president of a big corporation (and please be reminded that corporations are big because you and I work for them, invest in them, and share the profits in a thousand ways—both direct and indirect) you will find his company policies guided primarily by tax considerations.

They have to be—otherwise no business. And no jobs and no profits. Oddly enough, no taxes either—but this is a point which seems to escape the Washington economic geniuses.

If you talk to a small business man, you get the same story—only worse, if possible. It is here where the old swindle sheet does two men's work. The expense account—ah! The charge-off! In some cases, a fine array of whisky cases—thankfully emptied by obliging "customers"—is the only profitable enterprise connected with a small business. Without the deductible (it's legal, isn't it?) expenses, only Uncle Sam would realize any profit from this business.

Mr. Hawley recognizes this as a threat to the personal integrity of every American in business. So do many hundreds of thousands of taxpayers. It is not pleasant to cheat, even under the canopy of legality. It is not honorable to dodge one's rightful share of the tax load. It eats into a man's heart and conscience, this forced feeding of the ledgers in order to come out with the price of a can of beans.

How much is the taxpayer's "rightful" share? Mr. Hawley says he has naively enough to think "taxation was justified by the need to raise revenue. Oh no! That's an old-fashioned view now... The really important function of taxation is to serve as a device for controlling the national economy—an instrument by which you preserve prosperity, guaranteeing just the right flow of investment capital, proprietary spending, consumer consumption, etc."

That is, it doesn't matter about individuals any more. How and from whom come the enormous taxes is secondary. Just get the dough out of the individual's hands—and quickly. Though he earned it, he is too ignorant to know what should be done with it. "If I may presume to speak for those people (who don't like this kind of a moral climate), we would like some leadership in a movement to start doing something about it. We would like to restore personal integrity to this nation we love..."

Robert S. Allen Reports

Kefauver Ready For All-Out Battle For Nomination

Washington, July 31—The die is cast for Senator Estes Kefauver. The Tennesseean has decided to go ahead and make an all-out fight for the presidential nomination at the Chicago convention.

He is still willing to come to terms with Adlai Stevenson, and to a lesser degree with Governor Harriman. But neither has yet made what Kefauver considers an acceptable offer. So he and his lieutenants are preparing to battle it out in the convention.

For that, they need $15,000 for expenses there.

One thing they want is to rent a prominent part of the ground floor of the main convention hotel. Another plan is to barrage the delegates with a glittering sound truck. To raise the money for all this, some of Kefauver's backers have agreed to put up $1,000 each.

Still hanging over him is some $25,000 in unpaid primary bills. The Tennesseean wound up his unsuccessful 1952 presidential drive with more than $38,000 in debts. It took him several years to clear them up.

Two main hitches are barring a pre-convention alliance with Stevenson or Harriman.

One is Stevenson's firm refusal to commit himself to anything beyond "open-minded" consideration of Kefauver for running mate. The other obstacle is Kefauver's reluctance to tie up close with Harriman because of belief that the New Yorker is basing his convention strategy primarily on the highly volatile civil rights issue.

Kefauver fears this might hurt him politically in Tennessee in the future.

WHEELIN' AND DEALIN'—Most friendly Stevenson overture so far made to Kefauver was by Colonel Jack Arvey, Illinois National Committeeman and top Stevenson leader.

Arvey proposed that Kefauver withdraw from the race and urge his delegates to switch to Stevenson. In return for that, Arvey pledged to personally work for Kefauver's nomination as Vice President.

As the Chicagoan carries a lot of weight with key Democratic leaders throughout the country, his offer was significant.

But Kefauver finally turned it down for two reasons: "That it would be 'disloyal' to his supporters who campaigned so hard for him in Minnesota, New Hampshire, Wisconsin and the other primary states; and his private conviction that Stevenson really doesn't want him as running mate."

"Jiggs" Donohue, national Kefauver director, is the foremost advocate in the Tennesseean's inner councils of an alliance with Governor Harriman.

This has not been wholly rejected by Kefauver. But he has shied away from proposals to head a last-ditch "stop Stevenson" movement. That has been strongly urged by Donohue, a long-time political friend of former National Chairman Frank McKinney, J. Howard McGrath and William Boyle—all bitter-end Stevenson foes. They favor going the limit to block the Illinoisan.

But Kefauver sternly put his foot down when Donohue talked of "opening negotiations" with Carmine DeSapio, Harriman's manager, for that purpose.

This rebuff has not discouraged Donohue. He is still hoping and maneuvering, and in frequent contact with Harriman's leaders and other candidates. Donohue is also sticking by his remark in the heated California primary, "If Stevenson is nominated, I'll leave the country."

POLITICALS—A one-time New Deal cabinet member is trying a political comeback in Kansas. Harry Woodring, whom President Roosevelt ousted as Secretary of War, is seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. To aid him, Woodring is displaying a letter from Representative James Roosevelt (D., Calif.) asserting his father did not fire Woodring.

National Chairman Leonard Hall is telling New York GOP chiefs that both President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon will campaign in their state. Hall is promising a major speech by the President in Manhattan, and at least two by Nixon in upstate New York.

A number of top Stevenson leaders are behind the vice presidential boom for Senator Hubert Humphrey. That's the inside significance of this drive. The dynamic Minnesotan, who is rated as among the best campaigners in the party, has been personally urged to seek the vice presidency by Stevenson's closest advisers. They indicated they are doing that with the Illinoisan's knowledge and approval.

Humphrey's campaign manager at the convention is Representative Eugene McCarthy (D., Minn.), who is establishing a headquarters in the main convention hotel in Chicago.

Pain, Years Fail To Dull Memory

By Jim Riley

The human memory is regarded by science as the greatest mystery in the world. Its function never ceases to amaze learned men in every nation.

We had a little occurrence recently that revealed the great power of the human memory, at least partially.

The story was passed on to us by a man who would rather remain unnamed. But, it occurred at Steve's Luncheonette, East Stroudsburg, during lunch hour one day last week.

The sandwich chef, Mrs. Larry Dildine, was going about her many chores during the daily rush hour.

But, suddenly she paused and looked a little longer than usual at a customer seated at the end of the counter. Returning to the other end of the counter she asked another customer if the first gentleman was Fred Blacker. When told that it was, she related a fantastic story of memory, which had carried over a span of approximately a quarter-century.

The story was later relayed to Blacker when the two men returned to their jobs at Hughes Printing Co.

Here's the tale as it was passed on to this reporter:

It seems that Mrs. Dildine, then four-year-old Jean Martin, fell down the cellar steps of a N. Courtland St. restaurant operated by her parents at the time.

No sooner had the young girl toppled down the steps and let loose with a scream of pain, than Blacker, a little younger than at the present time, rushed to her side and carried the girl upstairs.

Jane suffered a broken collarbone in the fall, which is a serious and painful injury for a four-year-old.

Although Mrs. Dildine was in great pain and saw Blacker only that one time, she remembered him to the present day.

Each agrees that they hadn't seen or known of each other since the tumble down the steps. Don't try to figure it out, because science has failed.

East Stroudsburg Council Seeks Thruway Information

EVEN AS A GROUP of 10 citizens, largely from East Stroudsburg's First Ward, made plans to meet with State Highway officials today in Harrisburg to discuss interchanges on the proposed by-pass for the area, borough council moved to invite officials here to give them a report on the engineering study made by Gannett, Fleming, Corddry and Carpenter, Inc.

Council President Roy Lloyd said yesterday the group had pointed out matters involving the "Mink Sink Hills" interchange and other facets of the proposed route to borough officials.

"We have decided to invite State Highway Department officials and representatives of the engineering firm to meet with us," Lloyd said. "Our aim is to get a factual report covering all the layout affecting East Stroudsburg so we can intelligently discuss and consider the proposal. Until we get that information we feel we are only speculating and we do not want to do anything which would prevent the building of the Thruway," he added.

Hope
"It is our hope that the state and engineering officials will respond to our appeal for a full discussion of the proposal," the council president said.

Meanwhile, Henry Evans, Arthur M. Troegner and Councilman Harold A. Wiggins of the First Ward will head the group of 10 who plan to meet today with representatives of the engineering firm and Harold G. Van Riper, highway planning engineer.

Troegner summed up the aim of the trip in this manner:
"We will suggest that the road and interchanges affecting East Stroudsburg be so located as to provide a more favorable service to the best interests of the borough."

Check

Blankets and water were used to localize the blaze until the Marshalls Creek firemen arrived and subdued the fire.

Here's where Ford's winning ways begin

With years-ahead Thunderbird styling!

The long, low, dreamy lines of the Thunderbird are evident everywhere. And that's why the '56 Ford is winning new hearts all over America.

...and they never seem to end!

With performance that makes
Ford the world's largest-selling "eight"!

You need only glance at Ford's competitive record for '56 to see why Ford's the performance choice of thousands and still the V-8 champ! Need more proof? In any Fordomatic Fairlane or Station Wagon model, you can have the biggest, liveliest V-8 engine in the entire low-price field.

The Thunderbird's own V-8—with 225 h.p.—is the same engine that has powered the fabulous Ford Thunderbird into the hearts of so many sports-loving Americans. For hill-melting magic and peace-of-mind passing ability there's never been anything in a low-priced car like it!

You get extra built-in quality throughout the whole Ford car. For example, only Ford in its field has a sturdy, 5-cross-member frame—a front stabilizer for surer-footed roadability—a tight, quiet all-steel body with insulation that matches the expensive cars. These and many more quality features add up to make driving a Ford far more fun for you.

You get Ford's famous savings. And it adds up! For a Ford V-8 again beat everything in its class (including Sixes) in the famous Mobilgas Economy Run. And even Ford's 202-h.p. Thunderbird V-8 feeds on "regular" fuel.

And worth that keeps . . . even through resale! Take a good look at a Ford and you'll agree that a Ford has much more in common with cars costing hundreds more than it does with cars in its own price class! That's why a Ford is actually worth more than the price you pay for it now. And come the day you decide to sell it, you'll be delighted with the way Ford holds on to its value, too!

FRIDAY, Saturday and Sunday, local and area sports fans will get an opportunity to view the best softball teams in the state of Pennsylvania. On these three days the quarters, semis and finals of the Keystone Amateur Softball Association's Class A Tournament will be run off at Gordon Giffels and Stroudsburg Playgrounds diamonds.

Hosting the affair will be the Twin City TV, the local team that went far last year before being eliminated. Sponsoring the tournament is the Joe Whalen-led Monroe County Softball League.

The start of the classic will bring another first for Stroudsburg and Monroe County, for never before has a state-wide tournament been held in the area.

From a standpoint of Doubting Thomases, the event should give the sport a shot in the arm in the vicinity, as topnotchers from every nook and corner of the Keystone domain knock heads for the Pennsylvania KASA championship.

A majority of the games will be played under the lights at Giffels diamond, opening the way for late-workers to take in a good part of the clashes.

More than 200 players and families will stream into Stroudsburg from near and faraway spots when the tournament swings into action. A good share of the participants will use the three-day tournament as a means of giving their loved ones a Pocono holiday.

From this vantage point, the setup is ideal. Expected good softball plus anticipated business could make the tournament a success competitively and financially.

If the turnout reaches expectations the Varsity "S" Association of Stroudsburg will benefit not end as the "S" group will man and reap the profits from refreshments sold during the three-day affair. And the more the "S" coffers are filled, the easier their task will be of sending the Stroudsburg High football team to Sun Mountain Camp for a week of intensive grid drills.

Commissioner Forrest Fabel, one of the guiding hands of the tournament, has been working day and night lining up and piecing together the details for the Stroudsburg First. His job has not been easy. But presently it looks like all that's needed is the backing of the boroughs and the surrounding communities.

If giving sports fans the best is the means of putting softball on a high keel, then the Monroe County Softball League moguls have the answer in the KASA tournament. If work and unselfish efforts are the formula for success, then Whalen, Fabel and their crew of helpers can't miss.

However, as the man said, the final payoff in such an enterprise is in dollar and cents. This the MSL's brass realize and hope to balance the books via followers of softball and good, competitive sports.

The final act to the plans and efforts of the MSL-backed classic is Friday, Saturday and Sunday. We hope Monroe Countians are there for the final applause and bows.

Jim Thorpe Wins District Softball Championship

Defeats Tucker's Chevrolet To Gain State Tourney Berth

JIM THORPE — Jim Thorpe gained a berth in the Keystone Amateur Softball Tournament which will be held at Stroudsburg this weekend by besting Tucker's Chevrolet 4-1 in the finale of the best-of-three series of a district runoff here last night.

Jim Thorpe came up with three runs in the sixth inning to break a 1-1 deadlock and then held the Tucker batsmen at bay in the seventh to hang up the coveted win.

Fegley Victim

Gail Fegley, Tucker's star moundsman, was the victim of the Thorpe sixth inning uprising. A streak of wildness on the part of the Chevrolet righthander enabled Thorpe to get the bases jammed via walks before a hit opened the gates.

Hoagie Brogan went all the way for the winners, allowing only three hits. Fegley was touched for four.

Jim Thorpe grabbed a 1-0 lead in the second before Tucker's came back in the third to knot the count. This is the way it stood until Thorpe got to Fegley for the tie-breaking tallies.

Hayes To Give 'Loans' List

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 30 (AP) — Ohio State football Coach Woody Hayes has agreed to give Big 10 Commissioner Tug Wilson a list of university players who received "loans" from the coach, it was disclosed today.

Hayes said he has complied with the commissioner's request but only after Wilson agreed to two conditions.

1. That the list would be strictly confidential.
2. That no player would be punished.

"Tug agreed," Hayes said, "and his word is good enough for me."

Wilson placed Ohio State on probation April 26, stating that Hayes gave financial assistance to his players in the form of loans and that certain irregularities existed in the players' job program.

PITTSBURGH, July 30 (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs completed a sweep of their five-game series with the Pittsburgh Pirates tonight, whipping the skidding Bucs 4-2 to keep within 2 1/2 games of first-place Milwaukee.

Gus Bell, a former Pirate, was the thorn in the Pirate side, with mates on second and third and two out in the third, Bell sent a sinking low liner to right field. Outfielder Bob Clemente missed a shoestring catch and Bell got credit for a double as both runs scored.

Mantle And Williams Battle For AL Bat Crown Forming

NEW YORK, July 30 (UP)—With the New York Yankees moving comfortably ahead in the pennant race, the most interesting developments in the remainder of the American League season may come out of the competition for the batting title between Mickey Mantle and Ted Williams.

Williams appears to be in the best position to prevent Mantle from winning his first championship. Harvey Kuenn and Charley Maxwell of Detroit, who have been chasing Mickey for the last couple of weeks, have dropped back. Including Sunday's games, Mantle showed a batting average of .370. Kuenn and Maxwell were at .342. The Yankees' star dropped a single point in last week's action while Kuenn tailed off 4 points and Maxwell 10.

Big Question
The big question will be: Will Williams finish the campaign with 400 official at bats, the minimum requirement for the crown? The Boston Red Sox slugger has been to the plate 219 times with 79 hits for a .361 mark. Williams will have to average a bit more than three at bats a game to hit the 400 AB mark.

Mantle did not hit a home run last week and he drove in only one tally, but the slugging switcher continues to lead the junior circuit with 32 home runs and 83 runs batted in. Vic Wertz of Cleveland is the runner-up in both departments with 24 four-baggers and 78 RBIs.

Aaron Leads
In the National League, Hank Aaron of Milwaukee's pace-setting Braves took over the batting lead from Cincinnati's Ed Bailey.

Aaron gained 2 points to .338 with 8 hits in 22 trips. Bailey fell to fifth place as a result of a 24-point loss in 22 trips. He managed only two safeties in 22 trips.

Al (Red) Schoendienst of the New York Giants took over second place. The switch-hitting second baseman padded 14 points on to his average, putting it at .320.

Musial Third
Stan Musial, Schoendienst's former roommate with the St. Louis Cardinals, is third with .325. He dropped 9 points with five hits in 25 trips at bat.

Duke Snider of Brooklyn hit four home runs last week to deadlock

Delaney Top's Otto Harwi At Nazareth

JIM DELANEY, Hope, N. J., quiet, unassuming stock car driver, Sunday stunned a capacity crowd at the Nazareth Fairgrounds when he whipped defending champion Otto Harwi, Easton, in the 25-lap feature event.

Delaney snapped Harwi's skein of three straight feature wins, and did so by passing Harwi—leader for 10 laps—on the 16th. From there on Delaney's great victory earned him a bonus besides his purse, from the track management.

Heat Winners
In the heats, Shorty Kershner, Reading; Jack Bergstresser, Philadelphia, N. J.; Ken Marriot, Baltimore, Md.; and Bud Olson, Paulsboro, N. J., emerged victorious.

There were several exciting pile-ups, but no serious damage to cars or injuries to drivers. Spud Murphy, Lake Worth, Fla., escaped hurts in a sensational second turn crash.

The track will present another full card of stock car races next Sunday, 8:15 p. m., and will have a special attraction in a destruction derby.

Cincinnati's Ted Kluszewski for the lead in this category. Each has 25.

They Used To Grow 'Em Big
ATTY. HAROLD EDWARDS, of Stroudsburg, recently came across some statistics which almost make Paul Bunyan look like a dwarf.

Edwards was looking through the papers of the late Isaac Stauffer, at one time a large land owner in the Pocono Lake area, when he came across some figures regarding the size and weight of one Louis Cornelius, of Milford.

When Cornelius died at the age of 48 on Sept. 27, 1841, he weighed a whopping 646½ pounds in his shroud.

Cornelius was six feet six inches in height and measured six feet 2½ inches around the waist. His arms above the elbows measured two feet, two inches, below the elbow at one foot, nine inches, and at the wrists one foot, three inches.

Around the thighs he measured four feet, nine inches, while he was two feet, seven inches around the calf of his legs, and one foot, seven inches around the ankles.

Ballet Theater Impresses Crowds At Pocono Playhouse
By Leonard Randolph
MOUNTAINHOME—Because I was occupied with other matters during the past week I was unable to catch a performance of the Ballet Theatre dancers at Pocono Playhouse until the Saturday matinee.

This review, therefore, will serve only as an opinion of a production now departed from the scene. Yet, it seems to me the presentation of ballet in Summer theatre is of sufficient importance to merit even this after-the-fact discussion.

Last Saturday the group of dancers from Ballet Theatre were seen in four ballets. They ranged in nature and style from the neoclassic to something this side of "modern" ballet. It was one of the most enjoyable afternoons I have spent in a theatre—large or small.

Part of the reason for my immense enjoyment of the dancing, I think, lies in the intimacy of the theatre itself. Rowena Stevens, producer of Pocono Playhouse, has helped me prove a point to myself which I hope more and more theatregoers will find true—that the ideal place for good dancing is in a small theatre where it eventually becomes possible for the audience to "participate" in the patterned emotions of the things which take place on stage.

The ballet has never been so effective to me as it was at this one matinee. All of the grace and beauty, the sudden flickering and fervent feeling of interplay in the combined emotions of body movement and music sprang from the stage alive, deeply-realized and vibrant. This, to me, was a strength and honesty ballet never had in the enormous caverns of City Center or the other large auditoriums in which the dance is generally done.

Outstanding
Of the four dances done during the last half of last week's program I would choose "The Black Swan" grand pas de deux as my favorite without any hesitation. The reason is purely a matter of personal taste: Nora Kaye to me one of the finest dancers ever to grace a stage anywhere and certainly, as more astute critics than myself have said before, the greatest dramatic ballerina in the world today.

Miss Kaye was magnificent in "Black Swan." Yet much of the success of the pas de deux was equally due to the dancing of Scott Douglas. When Miss Kaye and Douglas were onstage together the world shifted its focus to these two figures and stayed there. Tchaikovsky's music and Petipa's familiar choreography were beautiful in their own right. It was a splendid performance and a thing of shining loveliness.

Almost diametrically opposite to the smooth-flowing grace of the pas de deux was the tortured, often vicious movement of William Dollar's "The Combat." This is an excellent ballet, filled with phys-

WISHING WELL

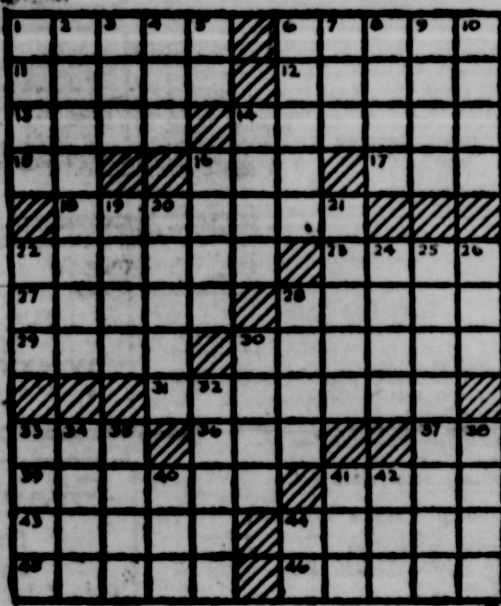

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your future. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 6. If the number is less than 6, add 6. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
